

If you could switch jobs with any fictional character, who would it be and why?

It would have to be Patrick Jane from The Mentalist, simply because he's effortlessly smart, he puts two and two together in no time, and interlinks various pieces of the crimes he investigates so accurately, all with a very cheerful demeanour. Now, wouldn't it be amazing if I could perfect all these traits!

If you had to pick a theme song for our office, what would you choose and why?

As cliched as it may sound, I would pick "The Office" theme song - starting from the scene that captures the morning traffic as we make our way to office; to settling down into our workday as we indulge in some catch ups - all in the backdrop of the diverse energies that our folks bring with themselves!

If you could teleport to any destination for a quick coffee break during work hours, where would it be and why?

To perhaps get to a laser tag arena to completely take my mind off as we shoot away - and returning to work with the sweet taste of victory, hopefully!

If you were to describe your job in emojis, which ones would you pick and why

💡 📦 - To think out of the box, or at least attempt at giving it a shot!

🤯 - My mind is blown learning ideas that fuel the new age business models we encounter every day, amidst the fast-paced nature of our jobs.

🙋 - You are bound to have 100 questions all at once as you start looking at a case!

What's your secret to always staying focused and motivated?

A strong cup of tea to kickstart the day and another one when the mid-day blues hit you! Also, making a to-do list motivates me to get them checked off one by one. I make sure to break down the list as much as possible because more ticks mean more wins, and every small win surely counts!
