OUR DIVERSITY, EQUITY & INCLUSION STRATEGY

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion has come a long way at Vivriti in the way we operate as well as our sensitivity towards matters that need focus and attention. We appreciate and respect the fact that the talent that will help us achieve our objectives comes from different walks of life and strata of the society. Nurturing this talent to do its best is a crucial input for our success and should be indifferent to biases of any kind based on segregations such as age, gender, marital status, orientation, and income-group among others. As a result, Vivriti holds unmatched importance to the cause of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion at our workplace.

Vivriti's DEI strategy can be summarized to state the following outcomes that are being targeted as a cumulative result of the metrics being tracked and the initiatives at practice in order of priority:

1. A truly diverse workplace tracked by metrics such as the number of women among our employees, in the leadership team and as part of the board.
2. An equal opportunities employer tracked by metrics such as the number of employees from underrepresented groups (LGBTQ, Low-income, etc.)
3. A truly inclusive workplace tracked by metrics such as number of initiatives launched to provide an accessible workplace to employees with physical disabilities.

DE&I METRICS FOR SUCCESS AT VIVRITI

To continuously map our progress towards becoming a truly equal and inclusive employer, Vivriti actively tracks and works on development areas under a multitude of metrics that are explained below.

Metrics focused on the employee lifecycle

- Hiring

What we measure – No. of applications towards job postings from diverse candidate groups

Our focus on diversity largely stems at the hiring stages for new employees with a particular focus on the diversity of the applicant pool for each new job posting advertised. We ensure that our job postings attract candidates from diverse backgrounds, races, gender identities, religious backgrounds and more.

- Advancement

What we measure – No. of women promoted in the organization

Vivriti maintains a strong stance on developing and growing talent irrespective of the group and/or background that the individual represents. This metric is tracked by keeping a close look on the number of leadership positions being filled by individuals from diverse backgrounds. For example, the women in the leadership team have doubled in the past two years.

Metrics focused on the employee experience

- Job satisfaction and engagement

What we measure – Average number of positive responses to specific questions on inclusiveness

A steady determinant of our employee satisfaction scores is our annual Employee Satisfaction survey which aims at providing us with key inputs on employee engagement via NPS scores and qualitative feedback. Certain questions in these surveys focus on the inclusiveness and belonging that the employee feels with the organization in terms of multiple factors such as decision making, alignment of values, and work ethic among others. Results to these responses aid in tracking metrics on inclusiveness linked to job satisfaction and engagement.

- Accessibility

What we measure – No. of initiatives launched by organization for physically abled employees

To complete the inclusivity part of our commitment towards DEI, Vivriti aims at cultivating a workplace and culture where every employee feels welcome. This is measured both by the number of initiatives that we put in place as well as our response and action on key areas that come to our notice from everyday examples.

- Work Life Balance

What we measure – No. of policies launched to offer work life balance to all employees

We include a range of flexible working initiatives to make our employees feel included no matter what their personal situation might be. For example, in addition to providing our female employees with maternity leave, we also offer our male employees paternity leaves of 14 days in a year to welcome and enjoy fatherhood.

EFFECTIVE DATE

This policy is effective from 1st February 2022 and supersedes all prior guidelines on the subject matter.
